Curtis Neeley Jr.

To: ..Opposing Counselors
Subject: Re (5:09-cv-05151)
Attachments: Communications Act of 1934.pdf

Opposing Counselors,

It has been illegal to "post" anything inappropriate for display to minors on "the Internet" since before the Internet was declared to be the "new medium" development of wire communications. The Federal Communications Commission has a mission currently of regulating wire communications called the Internet and has had this mission since before the Internet was what it was called. This fact is obvious to any who read the Communications Act of 1934 as is attached. The commoner but apparently not US Court Judges can find specifically in it as follows.

(2) The term "interactive computer service" has the meaning provided in section 230(e)(2).

Section 230(e)(2) follows.

(2) INTERACTIVE COMPUTER SERVICE.--The term "interactive computer service" means any information service, system, or access software provider that provides or enables computer access by multiple users to a computer server, including specifically a service or system that provides access to the Internet and such systems operated or services offered by libraries or educational institutions.

From Docket 237 Plaintiff found, "[a]s numerous cases have consistently held, this immunity extends to all manner of interactive computer services, including specifically Google", and anyone should now see why Plaintiff believes a trivial settlement offer was passed up by Defendant Google Inc. This ridiculously tiny settlement offer no longer exists. The Plaintiff will now not cease pursuing Google Inc until Google Inc no longer exists.

This result will not be difficult whatsoever as should be obvious to Google Inc Counselors. Google Inc already faces statutory damages of 250,000,000,000, as in 250 billion, for violating the exclusive rights to control publication of 17 million library books in New York. This does not consider the violations of the visual art that was also scanned and republished. There were fewer than one visual image violated in most books but scores of visual images in others. Google Inc faces $450,000 in statutory damage awards against the Plaintiff already in New York in two District Cases and punitive damages are easily warranted.

Google Inc already announces a groundbreaking settlement but this conspiracy will not be found to be fair as the Plaintiff in this case has standing and will appeal there if the case is settled or if the ASMP visual art case is settled.

The Plaintiff appreciates the fact that the http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/File:Figurenode_%2826%29_by_CN_Foundation.jpg finally does not return a nude thumbnail in the strict safe search settings for the search query of "Curtis Neeley". The several images that are shown in spite of protests at <artnude.pp.ru> have however recently reappeared. This wire communication is not private and will be included in the filing today wherein the Plaintiff drops this litigation entirely. NOT - April Fools. In case Michael Henry Page Esq is still confused about wire communications, searching for "Curtis Neeley" from <www.Go-Oogle.net> should illustrate how simple it would have been to avoid displaying nudes done by the Plaintiff. This is done at <google.com>, <bing.com>, <yahoo.com>, <lycos.com>, and <ask.com>.

Sincerely,

Curtis J Neeley Jr, MFA
